Champagne, Sparkling White and Red Wines

*I drink Champagne when I'm happy, and when I'm sad.
Sometimes I drink it when I'm alone.
When I have company I consider it obligatory,
I trifle with it when I'm not hungry and drink it when I am.
Otherwise I never touch it - unless I'm thirsty.*

Madame Lilly Bollinger

Champagne Description - All wine that bear the name "Champagne" have to by law come from the world renowned region of "Champagne" in France. All of these wines also must be a blend of Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Munier.

Varietal White Wines

Verdelho Description - Verdelho as a varietal still wine is a success story in the Hunter Valley. It originally arrived in the country for the purpose of making intensely sweet fortified wines, just as it does on the island of Madeira. However, when bottled as a still table wine (unfortified) the winemakers of the Hunter Valley found they'd hit on something really special.

Semillon Description - The Semillon grape variety is well suited to the warm and humid growing conditions of the Hunter Valley. Traditionally the variety was harvested early to avoid potential mould and mildew issues. The resulting wine style is light and dry with a crisp citrus finish. With age the acidity in the wine becomes less obvious with bottle developed toasty and nutty characters coming to the fore.

Pinot Noir Description - What's a delicate, fussy grape like this doing in a sun-drenched robust country like Australia, you might ask. You'd be asking a good question. Pinot Noir is a challenge to grow in any part of the world. Most of our pinot is coming from the great New Zealand wine producing areas. Being a cool climate variety, growers in the coolest regions are seeing great success, in these regions the wines tend to come out with strawberry / raspberry- characters when young, then get progressively more mushroomy and savory with age. The best styles of all come from vines with a little age, which haven't been harvested too heavily and from wines given a gentle maturation in oak barrels.

Cabernet Sauvignon Description - Usually considered the noblest of red grapes, probably due to its pride of place in the history of old world classics. In Australia, look for it in the medium to cool regions and the wines will be as powerfully flavored, blackcurrants and full-bodied as you'd expect from anywhere. It's at its minty best in Coonawarra and Margaret River - the latter region coming up with wonderfully good blends with Merlot. The Yarra Valley in Victoria is another Cabernet Sauvignon producer, making wines that are pure-fruited and elegant. McLaren Vale in South Australia and Mudgee in New South Wales also generate wines with black currant and berry characters with a hint of chocolate. All of these wines are rich and well structured to benefit from further age in bottle, so it's also well worth cellaring them, as we have.*

Dessert, Fortified and Sherry’s

Dessert Wines Description - “Stickies” are intensely flavored white wines, deep gold in color with bouquets of dried apricots, rich sweet flavor and a sharp acid finish. Their intensity of flavor means they are often sold in half bottles and drunk to accompany or even replace desserts. These botryised sweet wines contain a delicate, acidic balance that creates a sensational accompaniment to fruit desserts. They are also the perfect accompaniment to blue or soft cheeses.

Fortified Wine Description - Port, Sherry, Madeira, Malaga, Tokay, Frontignan and Frontignac are all fortified wines. They also happen to be place names in Europe or names for wines from specific locations there so many of these names can't be used to describe an Australian made product. Muscat is the one exception and refers to the name of the grape it's made from. The muscat family of grapes includes Orange Muscat, Muscat Canelli and Muscat de Frontignan
